Colonel Roosevelt started to speak shortly before dark. He was introduced by Maj. Gen. Lecnard Wood. Before the colone' was fairly launched on his address it became too dark for him to see his manuscript and a lantern was brought for him to read by. Several times he digressed from his written address. "No man is fitted," he said once, looking away from the printed page, "to be the citizen of a free country unless he is willing to defend that country," and loud applause followed.

Ignoble Part Among Nations.

Ignoble Part Among Nations. Mr. Roosevelt declared that for thirteen months the United States had "played an ignoble part among the nations." in that it had "tamely gubmitted to seeing the weak, whom we had covenanted to protect, wronged," and "had seen our own mer women and children murdered mer women and children murdered George Jackson, a prisoner at the state the high seas without action on

The former president condemned the government for having "not taken the smallest step in the way of preparedness to defend our own rights." Germany he condemned as "utterly brutal and ruthless in its disregard of international morality" and declared that it "would be a tase abandonment of morality" for American manufacturers of munitions of war to refuse to make shipments "for the use of the armies that are striving to restore Belgium to its own people."

Munition makers who refused to make such shipments should be puthes said, on a "roll of dishonor."

He said:

"Free citizens should be allowed to do their own fighting. The professions and that he professions are released. But said the use of it only three days and that he had served almost five years for the crime and believed that was long enough.

"I am not making any promises."

Jackson said, in his plea for clemency, he candidly admitted that he was guilty of the crime of which he was convicted.

Fackson was sentenced in Pawnee Capper's parole clerk, he asserted that although he had stolen the horse, he had had the use of it only three days and that he had served almost five years for the crime and believed that was long enough.

"I am not making any promises."

"Free citizens should be allowed to do their own fighting. The professional pacificist in as much out of place in a democracy as is the poltroon himself; and he is no better citizen than the poltroon. Probably no body of citizens in the United States during the last five years, have a continuous to lead a decent, law-abiding life when I am released. But I am not asking release on that score. I'm just putting it up to you, as man that I am entitled to sixty days' commutation for services rendered."

It was asserted that Jackson's frank wrought so efficiently for national decadence and international degradation, as the professional pacificists, the peace-at-any-price men who has

have seen our own men, women and children murdered on the high seas without action on our part. We have treated elocution as a substitute for action. During this time our nation has not taken the smallest step in the way of preparedness to defend our own rights; that the most powerful of modern military nations is utterly brutal and ruthless in its disregard of international morality, and that righteousness divorced from force is utterly futile.

Not a Dollar for Camp Training. "The government has not paid a dollar for this camp. Inasmuch as we as a nation have done nothing whatever for national defense during the past thirteen months, the time when during all our history it was most necessary to prepare for self de-fense, it is well that private indi-viduals should have tried, however in-sufficiently, to provide some kind of substitute for proper governmental action.

On Hyphenated Americans. "Camps lke this are the best poscanism . . The events of the past year have shown that in any crisis the hyphenated American is an active force against America, an active force for wrongdoing. The effort to hoist two flags on the same flagpole always means that one flag is hoisted underneath; and the hyphenated American invariably hoists the flag of the United States underneath. We must all be Americans and noth-

There exists no finer body of American citizens in this country than those citizens of German birth or descent who are in good faith Americans and nothing else.

The professional German-American has shown himself, within the last twelve months to be ar enemy to this country as well as to humanity. The recent exposures of the way in which these German-Americans have worked together with the emissaries of the German government-often direct corruption—against the integ-rity of American institutions and against America doing its interna-tional duty, should arouse scornful indignation in every American worth

Washington, Aug. 26.—Press dispatches from Berlin quoting the imperial chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg as saying if the German submarine commander exceeded his instructions in sinking the White Star liner Arabic, the German government would give full satisfaction to the United States, was regarded here today as confirming the impression already prevailing in official circles.

President Wilson had already received informal assurances from sources close to Count von Bernstroff, the German ambassador, that Germany's next communication on the subject would be of a character satisfactory to the United States.

Count Von Bernstorff conferred with Seretary Lansing nearly an hour this morning. It was understood the Elevator stocks of wheat in Kansas City have increased 9,712 bushels this far this week and corn stocks decreased 18,128 bushels.

Import repuirements of Holland are estimated at over 20 million bushels of wheat. The home crop promises to be under earlier expectations and only shout 4½ million bushels.

Exports from the United States and Canada yesterday were 639,000 bushels of wheat, 9,000 barrels of flour, 5,000 bushels of or orn and 3,000 bushels of oats; wheat and flour combined. 680,000 bushels.

The weekly lowa crop bulletin says: "Considering the cool weather, corn is doing as well as could be expected, and some of the earlier planted is in the roasting ear stage, but much of the late planted is not yet in tassel."

A cable from Russia says: "It is confidently expected at Odessa that relief to shipping from the Black Sea will soon be realized. Stocks of Black Sea ports are small. Movements of all grain is general and speculators are purchasing at very low prices and storing freely."
